2. Sprint review

- What went well
 - Successfully completed the application.
 - Developed and executed written test cases for all features.
 - Implemented automated tests for three key use cases.
 - Prepared and delivered a presentation on the software and development process.
- What went wrong
 - Some issues remain with file synchronization between cloud and local files. While most defects were patched, a few edge cases were not fully covered.
 - Discovered critical bugs right before the project presentation, requiring late-night hotfixes to ensure the demo worked.
- Problems and caused
 - Tight deadline combined with final exams led to neglecting some synchronization bug fixes.
- Improve the next sprint
 - None, there no next sprint
- Lessons
 - Even a great product can fail to impress without a strong presentation. Effective presentation and communication skills are essential to clearly showcase the value of the product and engage the audience.
 - This sprint reinforced the importance of thorough testing. A strong testing strategy helps reduce defects and ensures the product is stable for production.

3. Summary

The application is complete with all planned features implemented and tested. A few minor defects remain, primarily related to file synchronization, but overall, the product meets the project requirements.
